BECKER SENTENCE NEXT FRIDAY

Back in Old Cell in the Tombs After Jury's Verdict of Guilty and Already Planning for an Appeal.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 23.—Though ex-Lieut. Charles Becker will be sentenced to death next Friday by Justice Seabury for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, it will be many months before the final chapter is written in the story of the sordid tragedy that has held the attention of the entire country since the gambler was assassinated at the Hotel Metropole on July 16, 1912.

Becker is back in his old cell in the Tombs today while his chief counsel, Martin T. Manton, is preparing the appeal that will act as a stay of execution. Manton will make a hard fight before the court of appeals to overthrow the verdict of guilty in the first degree that was returned by the jury yesterday afternoon.

The decision of the court of appeals reversing the verdict of the first trial was not handed down until 16 months after the conviction of Becker. The decision upholding or reversing the verdict of the second trial is not expected to take so long, but there is a possibility that a year may elapse before the upper court delivers its judgment.

There was no break visible in the iron nerve of the convicted man today. Tomb guards said that he was acting as if a conviction for murder were an every day occurrence in his life, that he ate a hearty breakfast and that he showed absolutely no sign of emotion over the verdict that means he must return to the death house at Sing Sing prison.

Mrs. Becker, who collapsed when the jury returned its verdict, had recovered her composure today. At her home she discussed the case briefly.

"I know that an innocent man is being sent to his death," she said. "My husband is innocent of this hideous crime and they are sending to this unspeakable death a man whose heart is made of gold."

"If I could only tell the public the many good things that Charlie has done. His hand was always in his pocket—he was always helping somebody, although I used to remonstrate with him and tell him to keep his hands off. He was a good man, a fine man, a man who was a blessing to all who knew him. He was a man who was a blessing to all who knew him. He was a man who was a blessing to all who knew him."

Mrs. Becker denounced Charles B. Platt, Jr., the former press agent of her husband who was a witness for the state at the trial.

"I don't wish to appear bitter or uncharitable," she said, "but now and then my feelings get the better of me. Of course Platt will never suffer punishment for perjury for which he is indicted, and his occupation is assured pending the outcome of the appeal. That is sufficient inducement, I suppose, for a man to commit the crime that Platt committed."

"Do you know, I fed Platt when

TO ADVERTISERS.

Mr. MICHAEL, the public has been arguing too long. Its ears are ringing. Its eyes are weary with following wild guesses of inexperienced, amateur advertisers. Its intelligence has been insulted too often. Its credulity stretched too far. Readers turn with relief to my low-priced, moderate, non-exaggerated advertisements, booklets, circulars, business letters, etc., because they appeal to reason. The public weighs words carefully, and the balance swings toward the more solid ones. Let me show you the "difference" in advertising. Terms reasonable. George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

NEW LIGHTSHIP LOST WITH CREW

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Halifax, N. S., May 23.—The new lightship Halifax bound from Glasgow for Halifax has been wrecked on the eastern coast of Nova Scotia.

The lightship was a crew of 25 men and was believed that the crew was saved.

POLICE RAID SUFFRAGETTES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 23.—The police carried their war against the militant suffragettes into the enemy's camp today by raiding the headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union at Kingsway House. Arrangements for the raid were made secretly and no intimation of the police plans became known until they descended upon the headquarters.

Leading officers of the organization were arrested and documents and books showing the activities of the militants were seized. The raid is believed to be the first step in a campaign ordered by the government to crush the militants.

No opportunity was given to the suffragette leaders to escape. The building which was surrounded by a large force of policemen and every means of exit was carefully guarded. While the police were searching for the documents and books that will be used as evidence against the suffragettes they held their prisoners in the building.

Telephone calls to the headquarters were answered by detectives who refused to give any information as to what was transpiring. Reporters who approached the building were turned back.

$200,000 Fire in Albany.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, May 23.—The old Taylor Brewery, built more than a half century ago was destroyed by fire last night, entailing a loss of about $200,000. It was occupied by the Arthur E. Pratt Company and was filled with hay, produce and feed. In addition there were about 200 pianos, many of them new ones, stored on an upper floor and they with the rest of the contents went up in smoke.

The fire was perhaps the most spectacular one Albany has seen in years. It attracted people from Troy, Watervliet, Schenectady and other places. Probably 10,000 persons watched the fire as it consumed the big structure. Houses in Rensselaer across the river were set afire by sparks from the brewery building but were extinguished before much damage was done.

Conference on Ulster.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 23.—The cabinet council held a long conference on the Ulster situation at the home of Premier Asquith today. Recent developments indicate that another crisis is approaching and this belief was strengthened by an announcement that Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, would return to Ireland immediately.

UPRISING AGAINST FINANCIAL AND VILLA PREDICTED COMMERCIAL

If Rebellion Succeeds There Will be a Rebellion Against the New Government Incited by Demagogues.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Mediation Headquarters, Clifton House, Niagara Falls, Ont., May 23.—Conceding the probability of a complete triumph by Gen. Villa and Gen. Carranza in the present military campaign against President Huerta the conservative interests of Mexico represented at the mediation conference are looking forward to a new revolution against the Constitutionalists.

The slogan of this hoped-for uprising will be "down with the friends of the gringos."

This view of the immediate future of war torn Mexico was revealed today by a member of the Mexican party.

"Villa's success is born defective," he said. "Our people will not tolerate any man to whom the demagogue can point as the tool of the Americans. He may seize the country for a little while, but the nation will overthrow him."

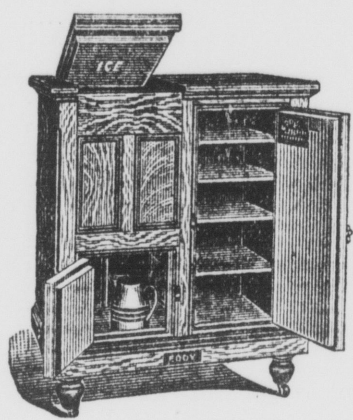

At the same time the Mexican delegates are allowing themselves to be understood as ready to take up the land question in this mediation conference. Members of the Huertistas' suite say that the entire Mexican public is agreed that the problem of distribution of the land must be solved. The Cientificos they maintain, are ready to begin the solution by creating a commission to draft a plan of putting the Indians and other peons on the soil under some such scheme as the English small holdings act. Long term contracts for payment on the land would be offered and the government would finance the original purchase from the present holders by a bond issue.

THE EDDY IS A REAL REFRIGERATOR WITH SLATE-STONE SHELVES

Not an imitation. Not an experiment. Not a hollow sham. Not made for a parlor ornament. Not made to suit somebody's fad or fancy. Not made with open joints filled with cement to absorb grease and odors, and make your refrigerator a germ breeder.

But, made for what a real refrigerator is intended for, that is to keep food pure and sweet with the least amount of ice consistent to obtain a perfect circulation of pure, cold, dry air. The inside lining is airtight; nothing can penetrate back of it to breed disease and germs.

Samuel Jacobowitz, one of Ellenville's leading butchers, with his family will occupy his farm home, the Stevens place, on Greenfield road, for the summer.

Knowlton Mason and wife of Napanoch are to occupy the apartment in the Carman house vacated by B. S. Trauer and wife.

William Deyo, son of Warden Deyo of the Napanoch reformatory, pitched the Princeton nine to another victory on Monday, May 18, when Princeton won over Dartmouth by a score of 3 to 2.

George Low is continuing the improvement to the Campbell drug store by giving it a new coat of paint throughout.

Scorsby's fine new club house is being repainted, adding to Ellenville's improvements.

State Road Bids.

John F. Donovan of Saugerties was the lowest bidder on the West Point-Central Valley state road in Orange county. His bid was $17,729.65. Joseph Walker of New Paltz, was lowest on the Delaware turnpike in Albany county, the bid being $31,840. These bids were opened by the state highway commission in Albany on Thursday.

Wenzel Suit Settled.

The action brought by Henry Wenzel, who was driver for Henry Hauck Brewing Company, against the Ulster & Delaware railroad, has been settled. Brinnier & Canfield appeared for Mr. Wenzel and H. H. Flemming for the railroad.

Costly English Port.

More than $100,000,000 has been spent in bringing and keeping the port of Liverpool up to date.

ANNUAL CHURCH REUNION.

Wurts Street Baptist Congregation Spends a Pleasant Evening.

What many spoke of as the most successful meeting of its kind ever held in the Wurts Street Baptist Church occurred Thursday evening. It was the annual roll call and reunion. Invitations had been sent to all the members and contributors. Two hundred responded in person and many more by letter and offering. At 8:30 the friends who had gathered in the audience room filed into the Sunday school hall to the music of piano and violin and took their places at the tables. A bountiful supper had been provided by the Ladies Work Society.

After the supper a delightful program of music and toasts was enjoyed. Letters from absent members as far apart as Boston and California were read and all departments of the church were represented in brief speeches full of wit and wisdom.

Samuel Every spoke for the deacons, Mrs. George Spellman for the Woman's Work Society, Harry Tremper gave a brief history of the church and spoke of the trustees' present trust. The Christian Endeavor Society, which was organized during Dr. Fuller's first pastorate, more than twenty years ago, was represented by Miss Margaret Bunting and the Sunday school by Superintendent Powell. Mrs. Grace Grey told of the Woman's Mission Circle organized four months ago. A. N. Barnes, who has been identified with the church many years, spoke of "the old guard" and William E. G. spoke of "the new guard."

"It is a good sign," quipped "It was a great satisfaction to all present that Mrs. Samuel D. Coykendall, who fittingly spoke of herself as a mother of the church, could attend, and the earnest words she spoke declaring the deep interest she has long had and still has in the welfare of the church, and the confidence she expressed in its future prosperity will not soon be forgotten. They breathed the same deep interest and loyalty as was shown for so many years by her honored father, Major Cornell, and her public spirited husband, S. D. Coykendall. Her words came as a fitting climax to what will prove a red letter day in the history of the Baptist Church.

Dr. Fuller was made happy, as he well may be, at the splendid response and fine spirit manifested by the church. It is the purpose of the trustees to have the church painted during the summer and other repairs made.

Saxon England.

A balustrade lecture will be given at the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, May 24 on Saxon and Danish England, or the Church in Saxon and Danish Times. The conversion of England in the Roman period was followed by another evangelization in Saxon times. This latter period included that in which English poetry and literature of all sorts had its origin. Such names as Alfred, the venerable Bede, Caedmon, Edward the Confessor, came down to us from those distant times. Wonderful stories are told of deeds of daring by kings and priests. As upon last Sunday evening the lecture will be illustrated by fifty beautiful views. In all the world there is not to be found anywhere so much beauty in architecture as in old England, and the choicest examples in village, church and stately cathedral will be illustrated in these lectures. The public is cordially invited.

Mannerchor Memorial Service.

The Rondout Social Mannerchor will hold memorial services in the Mannerchor Hall Sunday, May 24, at 3 o'clock p. m., for deceased members, Prof. Albert Steinfeld, musical director.

THE EDDY IS A REAL REFRIGERATOR WITH SLATE-STONE SHELVES

Not an imitation. Not an experiment. Not a hollow sham. Not made for a parlor ornament. Not made to suit somebody's fancy. Not made with open joints, filled with cement to absorb grease and odors, and make your refrigerator a germ breeder.

But, made for what a real refrigerator is intended for, that is to keep food pure and sweet with the least amount of ice consistent to obtain a perfect circulation of pure, cold, dry air. The inside lining is air-tight; nothing can penetrate back of it to breed disease and germs.

Question of Whether Shoes are Part of the Man to be Put up to the State Civil Service Commission.

Shall applicants for positions on the police force be measured with their shoes on or must they be measured in their stocking feet? Is the question that the Canfield civil service board will submit to the state board for it to pass upon as a result of the remeasuring of James V. Connelly, Robert Healey and William Reardon, who were appointed members of the police force by the Irwin administration before it passed out of office.

When the Canfield civil service board took office all examination papers and application blanks were missing as well as all of the records of the Irwin civil service board with the exception of the minute book. Several months ago the state civil service board notified the Canfield board that the Irwin board had not filed its annual report, which should be filed with the state board on or before the first of the year. This annual report covers the year's work of the civil service board and the state law requires that the report be filed. The state board requested the Canfield board to make up as good a report as possible from the records of the Irwin board so that the law could in a measure be complied with.

In going over the minute book of the Irwin board, which was the only record that could be found, the Canfield board found the record of two examinations held by the Irwin board for patrolmen. The minute book stated that the first examination was held by the board, assisted by Dr. Huhne, the city physician, and showed that these three policemen were under the required height of 5 feet 8 inches. It is said that Dr. Huhne measured the men in their stocking feet.

State Board Asked to Reduce Height

The minute book shows that the Irwin board when it found these three men were under the required height wrote to the state board asking permission to reduce the required height to 5 feet 6 inches, which the state board refused to do.

Applicants Grew Some.

The minute book shows that when the state board refused to reduce the required height that the Irwin board called another meeting and that these three policemen then appeared and were remeasured by the members of the Irwin board with the assistance of Dr. Huhne.

In order to make the men reach the required height they were measured with their shoes on and the minute book shows that they had grown a couple of inches and were now of the required height.

Called to Attention of State.

When the Canfield board made up the report which should have been done by the Irwin board they called the attention of the state board to this matter. The state board considered the matter at several hearings as have been told in The Freeman and finally a few weeks ago notified the Canfield board that it would refer the matter to it with power to take action in the matter.

It then became necessary for the Canfield board to summon the three men to appear before the board to be remeasured because the civil service law provides that when any person is improperly certified and appointed that the civil service board should notify the appointing office—in this case the police board—that the said person was improperly certified, and it then becomes the duty of the appointing officer to revoke the appointment.

Refused to Take Off Shoes.

As a result the three policemen appeared before the board on Friday evening at the city hall with Dr. Daniel Connelly. The board raised no objection to Dr. Connelly being present and he assisted Dr. W. D. Hasbrouck, the city physician, to examine the three men.

When it came to being remeasured the three policemen absolutely refused to take off their shoes and be measured in their stocking feet. They were measured with their shoes on and it was found they were slightly over the required height with their shoes on with the probability that if measured with shoes off and in their stocking feet that they would not be of the required height.

The result of being measured in their stocking feet on Friday evening showed practically the same result as when they were measured with their shoes on by the Irwin board.

Up to State Board.

The question of whether these three policemen will be disqualified from serving on the police force by reason of being under height, if they are under height, will be submitted to the state board by the local board as required by law and the question of whether applicants must be measured in their stocking feet or with their shoes on is up to the state board. On their decision rests the fate of these three policemen.

Canfield Not Present.

It has been erroneously stated that Mayor Canfield was present at the examination held on Friday evening which was not so and is only another tale invented by the Busy Street Liar. The only ones present at the meeting last night were the members of the Canfield board, the two physicians and the three policemen.

FEDERALS LIKELY TO BREAK TRUCE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Vera Cruz, May 23.—An attack by Mexican Federals that will break the truce between the forces of Huerta and the United States is expected at any time now. Gen. Robles, who has 3,500 men under his command at Los Banjos, north-west of Vera Cruz, has promised his soldiers to lead them against the Americans within four days.

The Federal commander made this pledge in answering complaints of his men against hunger. Gen. Robles is a subordinate of Gen. Navarette, who has repeatedly declared that the Mexican troops would not violate the truce.

Rebel activity in the vicinity of Vera Cruz is increasing. Gen. Candido Aguilar, who captured Tuxpam, is reported to have come south and been negotiating with Federal officers for the surrender of the government troops at Soledad.

In this connection Major Chavez, one of General Maas's favorites was arrested by his own officers at Soledad on a charge of negotiating with the Constitutionalists. He was sent to Mexico City.

RESCUED AFTER TWO WEEKS AT SEA IN OPEN BOAT.

Survivors of the S. S. Columbian which burned following explosions of coal gas in her bunkers, off the coast of Newfoundland. The lower photograph shows the four survivors of a two weeks experience of drifting about on the open sea in a small boat, with practically no rations, subsisting on the boats of their comrades who died from exposure, thirst and hunger, as they appeared in the lifeboat when they were picked up by the revenue cutter Seneca. Above is shown First Officer Tierce of the Columbian, one of the four survivors, being carried down the companionway of the Seneca, at Halifax. Fifteen men off from the Columbian, but 11 slowly died before the drifting craft was sighted by the Seneca. The survivors suffered untold hardship from exposure and hunger, and suffered the even worse experience of seeing big liners pass within their sight but without seeing them.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 23, 1914.

The second conviction of Charles Becker is reassuring to those persons who are disposed to believe that a criminal can cheat justice if he has plenty of money to spend. The verdict of the first jury was set aside by the Court of Appeals, not because the judges believed the defendant innocent, but because they regarded the manner of his conviction as more suitable to lynch law proceedings than to the orderly administration of justice. No one is warranted in disputing the proposition that every accused man, no matter how guilty he may be, is entitled to an absolutely fair trial. There was no suggestion of lynch law in the second trial. The evidence presented was sufficient to convince any unprejudiced person of Becker's guilt, and it is hardly conceivable that this second verdict will be set aside. No normal human being feels inward joy over the prospective execution of this wicked policeman, but it will nevertheless be generally approved as tending to enhance the safety of the public.

During the term of the supreme court which ended on Thursday, Judge Chester disposed of 45 cases which were on the calendar. In the amount of work done, and the variety and importance of the cases, this is one of the record terms of the supreme court in the history of Ulster county, and Judge Chester may feel proud of the work he has performed. During the many years he has been on the supreme court bench, Judge Chester has always been an active worker, and his terms of court in Ulster county always have been marked by a large amount of business. Occasional popular outbursts against the courts and the law, and especially against the law's delay, have marked the history of jurisprudence for many years and human nature being what it is, such outbursts will continue as long as cleverly-spoken demagogues are able to gain attention, but the best answer to the statements of demagogues and to the ridiculous proposition of recall of judges is work such as that which has just been performed, conscientiously and satisfactorily, by Judge Chester.

Colonel Roosevelt unveiled his inmost feelings for a moment when he said to his neighbors at the Oyster Bay reception: "The older men here I have brought up with and those who are a little older still remember me, not always with pleasure, as a boy. I don't know any boy who had a good time who was always remembered with pleasure by his elders." There is much wisdom in that observation. The normal boy seems to be so constituted that he cannot thoroughly enjoy himself without becoming an unmilitated nuisance to everybody in the vicinity. Nevertheless, these distressing urchins frequently grow up into men who have the gift of making their own good times contagious—who diffuse around them a spirit of comfortable jollity which makes their presence sought after. These are much more desirable citizens than those who never outgrow the boyish habit of getting satisfaction from the annoyance of others. We fear that "Teddy" must be put in the latter class, not being able to duplicate St. Paul's saying, "When I became a man, I put away the things of a child."

People who are disposed to agree with Postmaster General Burleson that it would be a good thing for the Government to purchase the telegraph lines and manage them ought to be interested in a recent piece of news from France, where the Government is actually engaged in this business. It appears that the non-delivery of a telegram caused considerable loss to a citizen, who endeavored to collect damages. The case was carried to the French State Council, which decided that "the State is under no responsibility in regard to private correspondence by telegrams." Undoubtedly that principle would be upheld by our own courts also. We know that the non-delivery of a letter in this country often results disastrously to either the sender or intended recipient, but we never heard of the unfortunate person being able to collect damages. It is the same with the trouble of taking out insurance, whereas it is practical and easy to secure damages from an express company which fails to carry out its contract. The important thing with users of any means of communication or transportation is not to get damages, which are always insufficient, but to be as sure as possible of getting the service one pays for. It is obvious that a corps of employees who cannot be held responsible for blunders will not be as careful and efficient as would be the case if errors were likely to lead to loss of position.

FROM THE DARKNESS TO THE LIGHT.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

It was a year ago last last Christmas that a pitiful appeal to humanity was sent out by a woman upon whom physicians and surgeons had pronounced sentence of death from an intestinal tumor. Her sufferings were intense, and in the shadow of death, she begged, not for herself alone, but for afflicted humanity all over the world, that in cases where death was known to be inevitable, physicians be given the right painlessly to hurry the doomed sufferers out of their misery.

It was a Christmas message from a bed of pain, asking that science be kind to human sufferers even as it is to animals. "When an animal suffers helplessly," she urged, "we put it out of misery, but we allow human beings to remain in agony when there is no hope left."

Her story was carried afar and while there were many to echo her plaint that it was a mighty pity to let the agony go on when the question had resolved itself into the dreary, how long, it reached the ears of one surgeon who was particularly stirred by the unusual appeal. She asked for the mercy of a painless taking-away at the kindly hand of science, and he responded with the skill of a surgeon instead.

She was taken to a hospital in Philadelphia, and when the next Christmas rolled around, surgery had done its wonderful best, and there was a glad little song singing in her heart, a song of hope that by spring she'd be well.

Spring has come and she goes on singing, "Praise be for all on earth and in heaven," for the surgeon has pronounced the magical word, "healed."

In spite of it all—or perhaps, because of it all—as she recalls her suffering, she still insists that the wise physicians, scientists and legislators can, and will in the dim future, work out some legal plan whereby euthanasia may come to the rescue of hopeless sufferers, upon whom not one but many scientists have pronounced the death sentence.

Myself—I'm not so sure. Hopeless suffering is one of the tragedies of life that makes the whole world ask "why?" and perhaps all of us have known of incidents when it seemed cruel for science to withhold its helping hand. But there's the doubt, and this story only emphasizes once again that even when scientists try to "make assurance double sure," they are only scientists after all, prone to humanity's mistakes.

And beside, it might lead the unscrupulous-minded to count it an easy way to open a door to a much-wished-for release; and there is plotting enough of that sort.

But as one reads of despair turned into jubilation, all in the space of a brief year and a half, it drives home the truth that the heart full of hope to the end is the heart that escapes the worst woe of all. Half of the dread and the worries of the world are over things that never happen at all; and if we might slip out of the shadows and into the light without paying for the "luxury" of worry, of dread and of fear it would not be quite so bad. But each conflict leaves us the weaker.

Some folk, at the first sign of illness, worry themselves into a panic of fear lest the illness grow fatal; but it doesn't, and when health asserts its glad self once again and hope holds sway over their spirits, out they come into the sunshine with a happy song of release.

And is it true that fear and all the rest of the sad sisterhood just drop from the clouds upon hapless men and women who are powerless to resist their coming? There are many who say they were destined to worry, that nature herself took a hand in making them that way and there's no use trying to fight anything out with nature!

But there are some determined ones who do. And when the victory is won, it is almost past believing, the mighty difference that it makes.

Will the time ever come when schools, homes, individuals, everywhere, will count it vitally important to train the mind not to give in to the worst of its tendencies? One believes that it will, and while some will take more kindly to the training than others, the very worst can be helped to see that the despair of today may be turned into the happiness of tomorrow and that the things most dreaded often slip by without stopping at all.

And beside, that brave folk take their troubles only when they really come and will not be denied.

Little folk, big folk, are taught harder lessons than that—but none more useful, the year through and the life long. For, you know—

"The misfortunes hardest to bear are those that never come."

She Was No Easy Mark.

Martha is seven, and has shown more than the ordinary childish aversion to learning lessons, being washed, and having curls made smooth and shining, and less than the average delight in fairytales. One day upon her return from Sunday school she was questioned as to what she had learned from her nice teacher this time. She cried out with flashing eyes and an indignant toss of her pretty head, "Why, mamma, my teacher told me today that story about the Children of Israel walking across the Red sea and not getting themselves wet one single bit—and she es-pected me to believe it!"—Lippincott's.

One on Sam.

Vice President Marshall's favorite stories concern his old life at Columbia City, Ind., and there are a number of hoary Hoosiers of northern Indiana whose names have become familiar to friends of the ex-lawyer and governor.

He had a janitor and a general handy man around his law office then, a negro who insisted every now and then that he was the most faithful soul that ever lived, or the most neglected, or the poorest, or whatever happened to suit his fleeting fancy.

Before Mr. Marshall became aware of this adaptability of the variety, he was much impressed with the dog's tales, and always responded properly. His eyes were opened by the old man coming in one evening just as the office was being closed for the day, and crying out that he was hungry, that he had had nothing to eat all day and that he had a little bread, but would be perfectly happy if he could get enough "change to buy a little butter."

Mr. Marshall immediately went into his pocket and handed him several coins, not stopping to count them and the janitor, joyfully in his thanks, tearfully but profusely departed.

His benefactor, a few minutes later, glanced out of the window and saw the darky enter a saloon across the way.

Nothing was said about the matter for some time, but one evening when Mrs. Marshall had telephoned down that the janitor was empty of butter, her husband turned to the darky, who was sweeping the hall outside, and asked nonchalantly: "Say, Sam, Mrs. Marshall says we're out of butter. Can I get good butter over at Jake's saloon?"—Washington Star.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 23, 1914.

The second conviction of Charles Becker is reassuring to those persons who are disposed to believe that a criminal can cheat justice if he has plenty of money to spend. The verdict of the first jury was set aside by the Court of Appeals, not because the judges believed the defendant innocent, but because they regarded the manner of his conviction as more suitable to lynch law proceedings than to the orderly administration of justice. No one is warranted in disputing the proposition that every accused man, no matter how guilty he may be, is entitled to an absolutely fair trial. There was no suggestion of lynch law in the second trial. The evidence presented was sufficient to convince any unprejudiced person of Becker's guilt, and it is hardly conceivable that this second verdict will be set aside. No normal human being feels inward joy over the prospective execution of this wicked policeman, but it will nevertheless be generally approved as tending to enhance the safety of the public.

During the term of the supreme court which ended on Thursday, Judge Chester disposed of 45 cases which were on the calendar. In the amount of work done, and the variety and importance of the cases, this is one of the record terms of the supreme court in the history of Ulster county, and Judge Chester may feel proud of the work he has performed. During the many years he has been on the supreme court bench, Judge Chester has always been an active worker, and his terms of court in Ulster county always have been marked by a large amount of business. Occasional popular outbursts against the courts and the law, and especially against the law's delay, have marked the history of jurisprudence for many years and human nature being what it is, such outbursts will continue as long as cleverly-spoken demagogues are able to gain attention, but the best answer to the statements of demagogues and to the ridiculous proposition of recall of judges is work such as that which has just been performed, conscientiously and satisfactorily, by Judge Chester.

Colonel Roosevelt unveiled his inmost feelings for a moment when he said to his neighbors at the Oyster Bay reception: "The older men here I have brought up with and those who are a little older still remember me, not always with pleasure, as a boy. I don't know any boy who had a good time who was always remembered with pleasure by his elders." There is much wisdom in that observation. The normal boy seems to be so constituted that he cannot thoroughly enjoy himself without becoming an unmitigated nuisance to everybody in the vicinity. Nevertheless, these distressing urchins frequently grow up into men who have the gift of making their own good times contagious—who diffuse around them a spirit of comfortable jollity which makes their presence sought after. These are much more desirable citizens than those who never outgrow the boyish habit of getting satisfaction from the annoyance of others. We fear that "Teddy" must be put in the latter class, not being able to duplicate St. Paul's saying, "When I became a man, I put away the things of a child."

People who are disposed to agree with Postmaster General Burleson that it would be a good thing for the Government to purchase the telegraph lines and manage them ought to be interested in a recent piece of news from France, where the Government is actually engaged in this business. It appears that the non-delivery of a telegram caused considerable loss to a citizen, who endeavored to collect damages. The case was carried to the French State Council, which decided that "the State is under no responsibility in regard to private correspondence by telegrams." Undoubtedly that principle would be upheld by our own courts also. We know that the non-delivery of a letter in this country often results disastrously to either the sender or the recipient, but we never heard of the unfortunate person being able to get redress. It is the same with the parcel post unless one goes to the trouble of taking out insurance, whereas it is practical and easy to secure damages from an express company which fails to carry out its contract. The important thing with users of any means of communication or transportation is not to get damages, which are always insufficient, but to be as sure as possible of getting the service one pays for. It is obvious that a corps of employees who cannot be held responsible for blunders will not be as careful and efficient as would be the case if errors were likely to lead to loss of position.

FROM THE DARKNESS TO THE LIGHT.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

It was a year ago last last Christmas that a pitiful appeal to humanity was sent out by a woman upon whom physicians and surgeons had pronounced sentence of death from an intestinal tumor. Her sufferings were intense, and in the shadow of death, she begged, not for herself alone, but for afflicted humanity all over the world, that in cases where death was known to be inevitable, physicians be given the right painlessly to hurry the doomed sufferers out of their misery.

It was a Christmas message from a bed of pain, asking that science be kind to human sufferers even as it is to animals. "When an animal suffers helplessly," she urged, "we put it out of misery, but we allow human beings to remain in agony when there is no hope left."

Her story was carried afar and while there were many to echo her plaint that it was a mighty pity to let the agony go on when the question had resolved itself into the dreary, how long, it reached the ears of one surgeon who was particularly stirred by the unusual appeal. She asked for the mercy of a painless taking-away at the kindly hand of science, and he responded with the skill of a surgeon instead.

She was taken to a hospital in Philadelphia, and when the next Christmas rolled around, surgery had done its wonderful best, and there was a glad little song singing in her heart, a song of hope that by spring she'd be well.

Spring has come and she goes on singing, "Praise be for all on earth and in heaven," for the surgeon has pronounced the magical word, "healed."

In spite of it all—or perhaps, because of it all—as she recalls her suffering, she still insists that the wise physicians, scientists and legislators can, and will in the dim future, work out some legal plan whereby euthanasia may come to the rescue of hopeless sufferers, upon whom not one but the many scientists have pronounced the death sentence.

Myself—I'm not so sure. Hopeless suffering is one of the tragedies of life that makes the whole world ask "why?" and perhaps all of us have known of incidents when it seemed cruel for science to withhold its helping hand. But there's the doubt, and this story only emphasizes once again that even when scientists try to "make assurance double sure," they are only scientists after all, prone to humanity's mistakes.

And beside, it might lead the unscrupulous-minded to count it an easy way to open a door to a much-wished-for release; and there is plotting enough of that sort.

But as one reads of despair turned into jubilation victory, all in the space of a brief year and a half, it drives home the truth that the heart full of hope to the end is the heart that escapes the worst woe of all. Vice President Marshall's favorite stories concern his old life at Columbia City, Ind., and there are a number of hoary Hoosiers of northern Indiana whose names have become familiar to friends of the ex-lawyer and governor.

He had a janitor and a general handy man around his law office then, a negro who insisted every now and then that he was the most faithful soul that ever lived, or the most neglected or the poorest, or whatever happened to suit his fleeting fancy.

Before Mr. Marshall became aware of this adaptability of the darky, he was much impressed with various goles, and always responded properly. His eyes were opened by the old man coming in one evening just as the office was being closed for the day, and crying out that he was hungry, that he had had nothing to eat all day and that he had a little bread, but would be perfectly happy if he could get enough "change to buy a little butter."

Mr. Marshall immediately went into his pocket and handed him several coins, not stopping to count them, and the janitor, profuse in his thanks, tearfully but joyfully departed.

His benefactor, a few minutes later, glanced out of the window and saw the darky enter a saloon across the way.

Nothing was said about the matter for some time, but one evening when Mr. Marshall had telephoned down that the larder was empty of butter, her husband turned to the darky, who was sweeping the hall outside, and asked nonchalantly: "Say, Sam, Mrs. Marshall says we're out of butter. Can I get good butter over at Jake's saloon?"—Washington Star.

WILBUR FOLKS ARE WEARY.

They Desire That Something Be Done to Abeel Street.

Kingston, N. Y., May 22, '14. The Kingston Freeman, Gentlemen:—

Some time ago there was an article in your paper regarding the repairing of Abeel street from Roundout to the city limits. It stated that the state road department and the city of Kingston were jointly to repair that street, or make a state road out of it, the city paying three-fourths or something like it, of the expense.

We who live on Abeel street, on that beautiful part of it, where the dust is continuous in the summer, and the mud in the winter, while the ruts are always in evidence, are getting tired of helping to pay toward the support of the politicians who live on the fat of the land, and exact heavy taxes from us, while we get nothing in return but abuse.

You, who were always for the people, for honesty and right, will you not come to our assistance and push this matter? It is now the right time to go to work at it, and if I am informed right, it is up to the mayor or the common council to put the thing through and get the state department to do their share.

Will you please let us know through the columns of your valued paper why there is nothing done, and if there is a chance of getting it done this summer? I know if you want to help us you can do it, and the residents of Abeel street, who vote and read The Freeman, will be everlastingly thankful, and remember the political party who will come forward and make life enjoyable on Abeel street.

Respectfully yours, THE RESIDENTS OF ABEEL STREET.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly and children called at the home of his mother the past Sunday afternoon.

William Connors has been cutting the grass along the canal. It was growing very tall. A vast improvement is seen and thanks should be rendered Mr. Connors for the interest shown in undertaking this work.

Mrs. James Lynch, who has been under the care of a physician for some time, and whose mind is affected, was found missing from her home on Wednesday morning. Her husband, who is night watchman at Rosendale came home from his work and not finding her started out to search. He went down along the canal calling her name when he heard some one reply. He looked in the direction of the sound and found her in the canal near the lock gate, holding fast to one of the beams. The water came above her waist line and as far as it could be ascertained she had been there for about two hours. She was rescued at once and Dr. Tilver was summoned.

Miss Edith Hasbrouck, who is attending Kingston Academy, is home on account of her health.

There was a dance at the B. W. S. Hall the past Wednesday. Music was furnished by the women's orchestra. There were 100 present.

William Demark was in town on Wednesday.

James Kelley has been helping the family to whom he sold his house, giving advice in regard to the farm, the plowing, planting, etc.

Mrs. George Van Wageningen took supper with her daughter, Mrs. Ella Sherman, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sutton were out driving on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. William Quick was in town on Wednesday.

Mrs. Edna Freer and her daughter, Miss Edna Freer, were in Kingston on Thursday.

There were religious services in the Catholic Church on Thursday morning, Ascension Day. Quite a few attended service.

James Kelly repaired the roof of the house belonging to Miss Mary O. Van Wageningen on Wednesday.

Mrs. James Lynch is not improving at this writing. They are going to take her away as her mind is badly affected.

The ladies of the church are making preparations in the parsonage, getting ready for the coming of the new pastor.

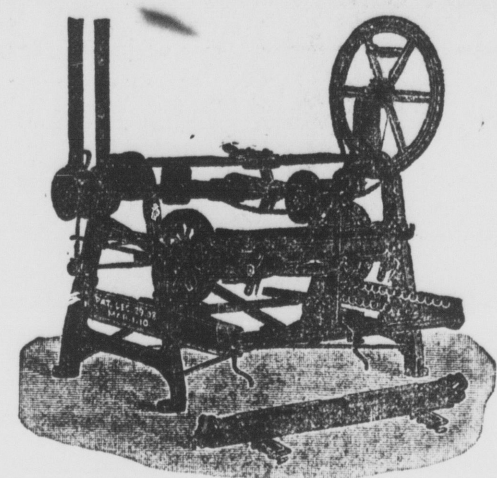

Last Friday evening the Salvation Army visited this place. They talked and sang but did not have much of an audience.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9932.—A Simple and Becoming Style

For Girls and Young Misses (With Vest and Short or Long Sleeves, and With or Without Chemise, etc.)

This design may readily be developed in any of the materials now popular. It will be pretty in blue voile or crepe with trimming of embroidered bands, and equally effective in white linen with embroidery in self colors in some simple design. The skirt has plaited fullness over the hips, and is finished at the back with a deep lengthwise tuck. The waist fronts open over a vest, that is gathered slightly at the neck edge, and is outlined by a revers collar cut round over the back. The waist and skirt are joined and finished to close at the centre front. The sleeve is attractive in either length. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 12, 14, and 16 years. It requires 4 1/4 yards of 44 inch material for a 14 year size. The skirt measures 1 1/2 yard at the lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Roundout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Ride Sanely and You'll Ride Always

Avoid the absurd mannerisms that once discredited cycling as a recreation. Sit up. Hold your head out of the dust. Grip the handles, keeping your arms apart and your lungs open. Throw shoulders back with back bone straight, thus giving heart and stomach plenty of room. Ride at a reasonable speed and for a reasonable distance. The IVER JOHNSON in our opinion is mechanically perfect. Its truss frame means easy riding, safety and long life. Come in and try it.

State road is the subject of conversation now days. It is predicted we are to have it. It is hoped it may prove true for the road should be made fit to travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Yates have made up their minds to once more take up their abode in their beautiful home on Highland road, where they have such a fine view of the noble Hudson. They have for a long time enjoyed the grandeur of California climate, still they are really glad to be in Ulster county, and enjoy its beauty of nature once more. Their many friends are glad to welcome them.

The special meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of Ascension Church was held with Mrs. Hudson Covert on Thursday afternoon with the following program: Opening address by Mrs. Richard C. Searing, president; vocal solo, "Brother, tell me of the battle," by Mrs. Frank Coutant; recitation, "Our new baby," by Mrs. Laura Fullerton of Saratoga Springs; duet, violin and piano, Mrs. Fred Martin and Miss Helen Cole of Esopus; vocal solo, "The pink rose," by Mrs. Victor Elzy, of Kingston; recitation, by Goldie Burger; piano solo, by Miss Helen Cole; recitation, "Aunt Jemima's Courtship," by Mrs. Hudson Covert; recitation, by Miss Fullerton; medley of patriotic songs, by the auxiliary. A very pleasant hour was spent and many of the members would enjoy a similar afternoon's entertainment long before next winter's campaign is begun.

The value of the box of goods to be sent to the Mountain Whites Living near Wayville, North Carolina, is estimated at over $75.

Mrs. Victor C. Elzy and Miss Laura Fullerton were guests at the lecture this week.

WILBUR FOLKS ARE WEARY.

They Desire That Something be Done to Abeel Street.

Kingston, N. Y., May 22, '14. The Kingston Freeman, Gentlemen:

Some time ago there was an article in your paper regarding the repairing of Abeel street from Rondout to the city limits. It stated that the state road department and the city of Kingston were jointly to repair that street, or make a state road out of it, the city paying three-fourths or something like it, of the expense.

We who live on Abeel street, on that beautiful part of it, where the dust is continuous in the summer, and the mud in the winter, while the rats are always in evidence, are getting tired of helping to pay toward the support of the politicians who live on the fat of the land, and exact heavy taxes from us, while we get nothing in return but abuse.

You, who were always for the people, for honesty and right, will you not come to our assistance and push this matter? It is now the right time to go to work at it, and if I am informed right, it is up to the mayor and the common council to put the thing through and get the state department to do their share.

Will you please let us know through the columns of your valued paper why there is nothing done, and if there is a chance of getting it done this summer? I know if you want to help us you can do it, and the residents of Abeel street, who vote and read The Freeman, will be everlastingly thankful, and remember the political party who will come forward and make life enjoyable on Abeel street.

Respectfully yours,

THE RESIDENTS OF ABEEL STREET.

The Orphans of Merchandise

The public likes to know the percentage of the things for which it is asked to spend its good money.

A name made familiar through advertising carries with it a certain pedigree. It breathes respectability and responsibility.

Dealers find that they are moving with the popular current when they display goods of known make and name.

When those goods have been made known through the columns of their home newspapers the dealers know they are carrying wares that have been introduced to their customers, and that are desired by their customers.

The logic of good merchandising is to give the people what they want.

Information regarding the advantages of newspaper advertising will be gladly given without charge by the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York. Booklet on request.

KINGSTON, N. Y.

CIRCUS COULDN'T BLUFF KINGSTON'S LITTLE MAYOR

Refused to Parade in Rondout After Receiving Permit on Condition That They Did—Held Up by Police on Mayor's Orders—Tried to Bluff it Out, But Failed—"Parade in Rondout or You Don't Show," the Mayor's Ultimatum.

Many people in Rondout would have been disappointed today at not seeing a circus parade in the lower part of the city had it not been for the action of Mayor Canfield in blocking all entrances to the grounds. The bluff of the circus management in refusing to show if the mayor insisted in making them go up and down the steep hills of Rondout was called when the mayor calmly notified them he would revoke the license for the show unless the management stuck to its agreement.

When the license was issued by Mayor Canfield he insisted on dictating the route to be traversed by the parade and the management complied. The show had got no further downtown than Foxhall avenue when it turned into that street to return to the grounds. Then the mayor got busy.

Policeman O'Neill and Ambulance Driver Wood, who were on duty at the city hall, were ordered to head off the parade if it attempted to enter the grounds without making the parade to Rondout. A few wagons got by before the patrol arrived but these were of no importance. The rest of the procession headed out Ten Broeck avenue and tried to make a detour to the grounds and cross the railroad tracks at Stephan street. The mayor was waiting in an automobile and blocked the crossing there. The circus management ordered the harness taken from the horses to a cage containing valuable lions and threatened the city with a suit for damages if a train should strike it. The mayor told the management to go ahead. That bluff called, the lions were soon taken off the track.

Nothing lacking in resourcefulness the circus attendants swung their wagons around the lace factory and started to come back by way of Foxhall avenue through O'Neill street but Frank Fitzgerald, driver of the city garbage wagon, came along at this minute and was told by the mayor to block the other crossing. He did so and the circus was cut off from its home.

Then Manager McCracken, of the circus, came to terms and compromised with the mayor. After some argument the mayor agreed to allow the show to exhibit here if the parade to Rondout was made. He conceded that some of the heavier wagons might have difficulty in getting up the hills and the management said the parade would go to Rondout.

The mayor started ahead of the procession and it wended its way out of Foxhall avenue to Broadway and came to Rondout. It was far from being the whole of the parade as seen on uptown streets but the mayor carried the day and downtown people were not entirely disappointed. One of the things missing from the parade below the hill was the absence of most of the bands, but the steam calliope was there to give off hideous sounds.

Corporation Counsel Brinnier, Police Commissioner Jacob Lay and all the policemen available were rushed to the circus grounds as soon as trouble developed, but there was nothing for the "cops" to do.

ous over parading in Rondout has been carried on for years, with varying success. The first district victory for the Rondout people was when Buffalo Bill's show was here while W. D. Brinnier was mayor. The parade was not going to Rondout. "Higginsville to Ponce de Leon or no parade," was Mayor Brinnier's ultimatum, and they paraded as directed by the mayor, C. V. DuBois leading them as the mayor's representative. Two years ago Mayor Irwin had an encounter with the circus, blocked them off from the grounds after they had paraded uptown and compelled them to parade in Rondout.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Cheap Floor Stain.

A very inexpensive stain can be made from burnt umber and hot water. Five cents' worth of the burnt umber will stain several floors; that is, where a rug is used for the center. Pour the hot water over the burnt umber, little at a time, till it is thoroughly dissolved. Use a quart of hot water to five cents worth of umber; that makes a pretty dark brown stain. Let it dry, then rub on any good floor wax and polish.

PETER ST. PETER PLEADS FOR LIBERTY

Peter St. Peter—his name is the same reading backward or forward—does not want to serve the jail sentence imposed by Judge Jenkins a year ago for violating the excise law, which was suspended at the time but was enforced this week. Peter St. Peter seems to be still suffering from heart trouble and asthma, with which he was afflicted when he pleaded guilty to an indictment a year ago, and the plea that he is likely to die if he has to go to jail, which was the reason for the suspension a year ago, has again been invoked by him.

The plea was raised this morning, when Peter's counsel, Judge N. Frank O'Reilly, asked Judge Jenkins to set aside the judgment and release St. Peter. Judge O'Reilly did not go into the merits of St. Peter's case, but only raised legal questions on which St. Peter relies for his release.

Judge O'Reilly claimed that Judge Jenkins was without jurisdiction and that the court was without power to enforce a sentence of imprisonment after the expiration of the time for which the defendant was sentenced. As a matter of law, said Judge O'Reilly, St. Peter had actually served that jail sentence although as a matter of fact he had not spent a day in jail under that sentence. Judge O'Reilly contended that although the court had power to suspend judgment, it could not suspend the execution of its own judgment after judgment had been pronounced, and that only the governor had power to suspend the execution of judgment. In St. Peter's case, he said, the court had the right to suspend judgment, by not imposing any judgment, but after sentence was passed, Judge Jenkins had no power to suspend it. In conclusion, he claimed that St. Peter suffered from heart trouble and asthma and was liable to die if he had to remain in jail. The law, he said, did not contemplate death as a penalty for violating the excise law.

Assistant District Attorney Traver said he failed to see the fine distinctions drawn by Judge O'Reilly. There was no question of the power of the court to suspend the execution of its own judgment. The defendant had been convicted on his own plea of guilty and a fine had been imposed and also a jail sentence. Rather than pay his fine, St. Peter had begun to serve the jail sentence which was the alternative of payment of the fine, but had not served any part of the jail sentence, which had been suspended. After serving a short time in jail in default of paying his fine, St. Peter had made the plea that further imprisonment would result in his death because he suffered from heart trouble and asthma. The court had therefore remitted the balance of the fine and remitted the jail sentence so that St. Peter had again gone at liberty. The result of his liberty was that he had again violated the law the same as before. There was no assurance that if he was released now, he would not again violate the law as formerly, and there was no guarantee that he would leave the county and not violate the law within its borders. The district attorney's office would feel very badly to have any defendant die, but he did not know that the condition claimed by St. Peter actually existed. He asked the court to hold the matter in order to give the district attorney's office time in which to determine what action it desired to take.

Judge Jenkins held the matter open until Monday morning at 10 o'clock to which time court adjourned.

CIRCUS COULDN'T BLUFF KINGSTON'S LITTLE MAYOR

Refused to Parade in Rondout After Receiving Permit on Condition That They Did—Held Up by Police on Mayor's Orders—Tried to Bluff it Out, But Failed—"Parade in Rondout or You Don't Show," the Mayor's Ultimatum.

Many people in Rondout would have been disappointed today at not seeing a circus parade in the lower part of the city had it not been for the action of Mayor Canfield in blocking all entrances to the grounds. The bluff of the circus management in refusing to show if the mayor insisted in making them go up and down the steep hills of Rondout was called when the mayor calmly notified them he would revoke the license for the show unless the management stuck to its agreement.

When the license was issued by Mayor Canfield he insisted on dictating the route to be traversed by the parade and the management complied. The show had got no further downtown than Foxhall avenue when it turned into that street to return to the grounds. Then the mayor got busy.

Policeman O'Neill and Ambulance Driver Wood, who were on duty at the city hall, were ordered to head off the parade if it attempted to enter the grounds without making the parade to Rondout. A few wagons got by before the patrol arrived but these were of no importance. The rest of the procession headed out TenBroeck avenue and tried to make a detour to the grounds and cross the railroad tracks at Stephan street. The mayor was waiting in an automobile and blocked the crossing there. The circus management ordered the horses taken from the horses to a cage containing valuable lions and threatened the city with a suit for damages if a train should strike it. The mayor told the management to go ahead. That bluff called, the lions were soon taken off the track.

Nothing lacking in resourcefulness the circus attendants swung their wagons around the lace factory and started to come back by way of Foxhall avenue through O'Neill street but Frank Fitzgerald, driver of the city garbage wagon, came along at this minute and was told by the mayor to block the other crossing. He did so and the circus was cut off from its home.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, May 23.—Will history repeat and defeat the Giants in their aim to be the first team in the history of modern baseball to win four pennants in a row?

From the way the Pirates have been breezing along so far, and from the way the eastern teams have been drubbing the Giants, it looks just now as if "Hit from Behind" McGraw is facing a mighty task in trying to lead his charges into the next world series combats.

Of course, the Pirates may "crack." All things are possible. But just the same that string of victories they have gathered up to date are going to count just as much in October as those that may come later on in the season. And, along the same line of reasoning, the defeats the Giants have suffered in this wet and soggy springtime will count against them just as heavily as will a walloping later on.

If the Giants cannot turn the "four pennants in a row" trick this year it may be ten or fifteen years before another outfit can place itself in a position when it can shoot at the target from behind the breastworks of three in a row.

On the pre-season dope, it looked like for a cinch for the Giants to accomplish the seemingly impossible. All the best little dopsters in the land gave the National League field the up and down during the winter and then passed the bunting to the New York aggregation. And now the Pirates come along and threaten to put the dope on the blink.

It was the same piratical band that upset the dope back in 1909 and balked the "three in a row" Cubs from turning the trick. No one figured the Pirates in on the pennant fracas that year. The old Cub machine that had won with such ease in 1906, 1907 and 1908 was intact. It looked like a sure bet on the Cubs.

And then up rose Fred Clark, the Chief Pirate, in mighty wrath. He swatted the Cubs on the coco, while they were in a dazed condition he took the 1910 pennant unto himself. Clark and his Pittsburgh crowd had a chance back in 1904 to make themselves famous by grabbing four in a row. But the Giants barred the way. Flashed by their pennant victories in 1901, 1902 and 1903 the Pirates still a wonderful aggregation, started out for a fourth triumph. They looked like sure winners, looked to outclass the field. But they didn't outclass the Giants, who won 106 out of 173 games and ambled under the wire miles ahead of the field.

Parallel conditions have existed in the American League. The Tigers won in 1907, 1908 and 1909. They started the 1910 season with a club that seemed even stronger than the ones that had won in the three years before. It looked like a cinch for the Detroit gang. And what happened? The Athletics—that's all. The Quaker City crowd that had been figured as outsiders started off at a terrific clip "a spurt that won't last," was the general opinion. But it lasted long enough for the Athletics to win 102 out of 156 games and long enough to enable them to defeat the Giants in the world series.

And then the Athletics decided to take a little shot at that "four in a row" mark themselves.

They repeated their 1910 success by winning again in 1911 but their chances for a pennant seemingly brighter than ever before, they fozzled long enough during the early part of the 1912 season to enable the Boston Red Sox to get ahead that even a terrific spurt in the last month couldn't cut down.

Of course, the Athletics by winning last season can by winning this year and in 1915 and 1916 turn the trick in three years time, but, with all due respect to Connie Mack's wonderful outfit, we don't think it can beat the field this year, and the next and also the next.

Taking it from Hugh Jennings, the Auburn-haired grass eater, and master of many strange languages, "the Athletics have a pretty big job carved out for them this year if they are planning to horn into the world series."

"HER BUSY DAY."

Hot Liners.

"Big Jeff" Tesereau is laid up with tonsillitis. Rube Marquard is weak from an attack of the grip. McGraw in bad shape for pitchers.—News Item.

McGraw's two stars are weak from ill.

And laid up with every conceivable pain; But they give the batters all sorts of chills.

And chalk up another victory when they pitch again.

Is Hank O'Day trying to get his job back as "Autocrat of the field?" The way the Cubs are going seems to bear out this statement.

The Pirates and Tigers keep their noses out in front. But the demons, Giants and Athletics are rapidly hurdling the gaps.

The way the Reds are going may soon start another probe. Such a winning streak is causing a furore in Cincinnati.

Walter Johnson has a rival in Young Foster of the Red Sox. He has gone 38 innings without a run being scored on him.

The worm has turned. After consistently losing games by one run the Naps got together and shaded the Yanks by a lone margin. Jackson's two bagger was the cause.

Washington is filled with all sorts of excitement these days. The Mexican situation New Haven probe, and a few other stunts are put in the background by the announcement that residents of the capital can now enjoy Sunday baseball.

Ty Cobb is laid up with a broken rib. It certainly will take more than that to break his spirit. Other managers would like to see some of their players suffer the same way.

England may have better golfers than we have. But where can they find a hurler like Walt Johnson.

All Were Winners.

The winners in the recent bridge whist tournament at the Kingston Club were the guests of the losers on Friday evening at a dinner given at Shell's Hotel, Lackawack, that will long be remembered by both winners and losers on account of the profusion of appetizing viands provided by Mine Host Shells. Trout, chicken and turkey figured largely on the menu and it was the unanimous opinion of the 24 men who were at the dinner that everyone there and every one who has an opportunity to partake of such a dinner is a winner.

A Piano for the June Bride

There is nothing that for desirability and appropriateness surpasses the Piano as a June bridal gift. Any one of the splendid instruments on our main floor would be warmly appreciated and at the same time reflect the artistic taste of the donor.

Or, if for economic reasons, a slightly used Piano is preferred, we have several which would baffle the skill of an expert to distinguish them from new. These we offer at price-concessions that are extremely liberal. If you intend making a Piano gift, come here first and profit.

brighter than ever before, they footed long enough during the early part of the 1912 season to enable the Boston Red Sox to get ahead that even a terrific spurt in the last month couldn't cut down.

Of course, the Athletics by winning last season can by winning this year and in 1915 and 1916 turn the trick in three years time, but, with all due respect to Connie Mack's wonderful outfit, we don't think it can beat the field this year, and the next and also the next.

Taking it from Hugh Jennings, the auburn-haired grass eater, and master of many strange languages, "the Athletics have a pretty big job carved out for them this year if they are planning to horn into the world series."

"HER BUSY DAY."

Play by Young People of Spring Street Church.

A play, "Her Busy Day," will be given by the Young People's Society of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church on Monday evening, May 25, at 8 o'clock in the school hall.

The characters are as follows: Cora Allen, a "up to date" domestic, Miss Lena Kohler.

Ethel Newwed, a young housekeeper, Miss Lillian Wolf.

Mrs. Eleanor Sabina Knowser, her next door neighbor, Miss Cora Holstein.

Barbara, an itinerant pedlar, Miss Anna Stumpf.

Katie Farmer, Mrs. Knowser's hired girl, Miss Katharine Schmidt.

Patrolman Eagle, on the beat, George Schantz.

Freddy, a schoolboy, John Remus. Happy Jack, a tramp, Fred Latur.

Tom Bluffer, a "no money down" man, Albert Salzmann.

Nick Prior, the grocer's boy, Carl Weber.

Mike Dooley, in love with Katie, Carl Will.

Clarence Newwed, Ethel's husband, Fred Schantz.

Refreshments will be served after the performance. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Hot Liners.

"Big Jeff" Tesereau is laid up with tonsillitis; Rube Marquard is weak from an attack of the grip. McGraw in bad shape for pitchers.—News Item.

McGraw's two stars are weak from ill.

And laid up with every conceivable pain; But they give the batters all sorts of chills.

And chalk up another victory when they pitch again.

Is Hank O'Day trying to get his job back as "Autocrat of the field?" The way the Cubs are going seems to bear out this statement.

The Pirates and Tigers keep their noses out in front. But the demons, Giants and Athletics are rapidly hurdling the gaps.

The way the Reds are going may soon start another probe. Such a winning streak is causing a furore in Cincinnati.

Walter Johnson has a rival in Young Foster of the Red Sox. He has gone 38 innings without a run being scored on him.

The worm has turned. After consistently losing games by one run the Naps got together and shaded the Yanks by a lone margin. Jackson's two bagger was the cause.

Washington is filled with all sorts of excitement these days. The Mexican situation New Haven probe, and a few other stunts are put in the background by the announcement that residents of the capital can now enjoy Sunday baseball.

Ty Cobb is laid up with a broken rib. It certainly will take more than that to break his spirit. Other managers would like to see some of their players suffer the same way.

England may have better golfers than we have. But where can they find a hurler like Walt Johnson.

All Were Winners.

The winners in the recent bridge whist tournament at the Kingston Club were the guests of the losers on Friday evening at a dinner given at Shell's Hotel, Lackawack, that will long be remembered by both winners and losers on account of the profusion of appetizing viands provided by Mine Host Shells. Trout, chicken and turkey figured largely on the menu and it was the unanimous opinion of the 24 men who were at the dinner that everyone there and everyone who has an opportunity to partake of such a dinner is a winner.

Memorial Day in Milton.

Memorial Day exercises will be held on Saturday, May 30, at 2 p. m. in the Milton Hall. The Marlborough Band will be in attendance. District Attorney William D. Cunningham will be the orator of the day.

The annual meeting of the Ashokan Rural Cemetery will be held to elect directors on June 15, 1914, at the office of said company, Glenford, N. Y. May 22, 1914.
